

Democratic Leaders Resist Efforts to Boost 1938 Spending for Relief

Representative Maverick Invites More Than Score of Colleagues to Discuss $900,000,000 Increase.

TREASURY BUSY

Search Made for Cheapest Terms to Borrow Money, Methods to Tighten Taxes.

Washington, April 21 (AP)—Democratic leaders, heading President Roosevelt's plea for economy, resisted efforts today of two groups of representatives to boost next year's relief funds far above his recommendation of $1,500,000,000.

Rep. Maverick (D., Tex.) invited more than a score of his colleagues to discuss the possibility of increasing the appropriation by $900,000,000. Rep. Boileau (Prog., Wis.) said the house "liberal bloc" would try to raise it to $3,000,000,000.

Administration chieftains, besides forecasting defeat for these proposals, expressed certainty they could stop efforts of other Senate and House members to cut Mr. Roosevelt's request by a third.

Speaker Bankhead indicated the leaders were ready to put on the pressure to block all bills—except those of the utmost importance—which would authorize extra appropriations.

The President, furthermore, said a measure probably would be offered to let him withhold from federal departments appropriations which he considered unnecessary.

President's Desire
He wanted to keep the relief fund at $1,500,000,000, however, on the ground that any smaller amount would mislead the nation and necessitate a later request for additional funds.

The Works Progress Administration said unemployment would continue to be a serious problem in coming months and that even a high tide of prosperity could not cut the roll of jobless below 4,000,000.

A report by Deputy Administrator Aubrey Williams blamed changing productivity and additions to the labor supply for the prospect. He urged an "integrated and perfected program of insurance, public work and public assistance."

Treasury Gets Busy
The submission of President Roosevelt's revised budget message started the treasury today on a search for the cheapest terms to borrow money and for methods to tighten the tax system to bolster future income.

First, however, fiscal spokesmen predicted an already launched program of borrowing $50,000,000 a week would be continued until $300,000,000 had been obtained.

They said they would have to determine by June 15 whether to continue borrowing on short-term bills or to turn to longer-term bond issues for future funds. On that date about $300,000,000 of discounted bills issued in March will come due.

Originally, it had been expected these bills would be paid out of tax receipts for the second quarter of the year but authorities said today this would be prevented because revenues were not coming up to expectations.

Same Problem in September
The same problem will arise on September 15, they believe, when the government will have to pay back the money it is now borrowing in $50,000,000 weekly chunks.

The unsettled state of the market for government bonds in recent weeks apparently led to Secretary Morgenthau's decision to issue short-term bills to tide the treasury over for the rest of this fiscal year.

President Roosevelt's message yesterday showed that the net deficit, estimated last January at $2,248,128,000, would be increased by $203,000,000 through failure of tax collections to match up with forecasts.

Additional borrowing before July 1 is expected to push the public debt to a new peak of $25,325,000,000—$1,557,000,000 over last July 1.

The study of closing loopholes in existing tax laws, aimed at bringing the government's income closer to its expenses and thus doing away with the need for some borrowing, is to be completed by November.

Mr. Roosevelt said the treasury would offer suggestions for such new or additional taxes as may be necessary if revenues are not adequate.

Spanish War Blamed
New York, April 21 (AP)—The war in Spain was blamed for the death here today of one man in a gas-filled apartment and the near deaths of three others.

Mr. Roosevelt said the treasury would offer suggestions for such new or additional taxes as may be necessary if revenues are not adequate.

Gates Requests to Leave Local Church; Beaumont Accepted Into Ministry

Among other pastoral changes in nearby Presbyterian churches voted upon yesterday by the Presbytery of North River were those in the First Presbyterian Church of this city, Millerton, Wappingers Falls and Pleasant Plains. The Rev. Goodrich Gates of Kingston will leave by the first of October, it was decided, following a request by Dr. Gates that the pastoral relation be dissolved at the October meeting of the Presbytery.

The Rev. Ralph H. Beaumont, pastor of the Ulster Park Reformed Church and of the Union Center Chapel, was received into the Presbyterian ministry and accepted a call to the Pleasant Plains Presbyterian Church. He came by letter of transfer from the Classis of Ulster which met yesterday morning in the Kaibab Reformed Church. The Rev. Dr. Harold B. Kerschner of Poughkeepsie was designated to examine him in theology, as constitutionally required. Other examinations were waived and he was unanimously enrolled in the presbytery. He was ordained several years ago in the First Reformed Church of this city.

Mr. Beaumont will be installed in the Pleasant Plains Church May 21. Those designated to officiate for the Presbytery are the moderator, the Rev. William J. McVey, who will preside; the Rev. Charles M. Moser, who will preach; the Rev. William J. Swartz, who will give the charge to the congregation; and Dr. Gates, who is to give the charge to the pastor.

Dissolution of the pastoral relation in Wappingers Falls was voted on request of the minister, the Rev. Irving M. Haynes, to take effect at a later date. Mr. Haynes also resigned from the General Council.

Installation of the Rev. Dr. Herbert Daniel in Millerton will be delayed. The call drawn up at the congregational meeting which elected him pastor was not in order. This will be revised by order of presbytery and the call extended at an early date. Dr. Daniel was enrolled as a member of the presbytery and will continue service in Millerton as pastor-elect. He was received by letter from the presbytery of Brooklyn-Nassau.

Two Elected
The Presbytery elected two ministers to represent it in the general assembly which meets next month in Columbus: the Rev. Everett J. LeCompte of Marlborough and the Rev. Mr. Swartz of Pleasant Valley.

A net loss of members in most of the 23 churches of Presbytery was reported, offset, however, by an unusually large number of members received on profession of faith. A net loss in Sunday school members was likewise discovered in most churches.

Medges Support
The district attorney said that whenever the firemen met with anything that excited the suspicion that a fire might have been set, to get in touch with the nearest police authorities so that suitable action could be taken, and said that as long as he was district attorney the fire department of the county would receive his wholehearted support.

Talking of the torch murder in Ellenville the district attorney said that suspicion was first aroused when the firemen found the house door open, and the fire confined to one room of the house. He told of the finding of the body and of the man from an old auto truck which had been found to contain human blood and grey hair. He also traced the various steps taken by the authorities which finally led to the arrest of the wanted negro.

The district attorney was introduced by former Mayor Eugene R. Carey, who is also a member of Cordia House, and was chairman of the entertainment committee for the evening.

Mr. Carey in introducing the district attorney spoke briefly and called attention to the fact that he believed the action taken by the authorities was a masterpiece.

Four Bus Drivers Enter Guilty Plea, Suspend Sentences

Joseph F. Sweeney, John Kolano, Floyd E. Mackey and John R. Herck, employed as bus drivers for the Mountain View Coach Line and the Diamond D Bus Line, who were arrested some time ago by agents from the State Public Service Commission, on charges of driving their busses over streets not designated in the bus franchises, appeared in police court on Tuesday, to which time the hearings had been adjourned, and through their attorney, Andrew W. Lent of Highland, entered pleas of guilty to the charge.

Robert J. McVey, attorney for the State Public Service Commission, in consideration of the pleas entered which obviated the necessity of lengthy trials, consented to any sentence that might be imposed be suspended.

Judge Culliton suspended the serving of sentence and discharged the bus drivers.

The arrest of the four bus drivers was the outgrowth of the controversy that waged last year as to which was the updown bus terminal, the old terminal on Crown street or the new bus terminal on North Front street. The Public Service Commission ruled that busses that had been using the Crown street terminal continue to use it.

In order to get to the new terminal on North Front street the bus lines operated over streets which had not been designated in the franchise granted the bus lines by the commission. That fact resulted in the visit of the agents to Kingston and the arrest of four bus drivers.

Faithful Mary Doubts Father Divine is Ebony Deity, Keeps Property

Although the caravan of state troopers and deputy sheriffs that fired itself off yesterday looking for Father Divine had no luck as far as finding the Harlem "God" was concerned, they ran across Faithful Mary at 6 o'clock in the evening at High Falls.

"I'm through with Father Divine," she told Corporal Norman Baker when he talked with her in Peace Market to find out whether she knew the whereabouts of the ebony deity.

"No, I don't know where he is, and I don't think he'll come this way, because we're through."

When the corporal expressed surprise, Faithful Mary went on:

"I've had enough of it. Father Divine got two of my properties, but he'll not get this one, or any more of mine."

When Trooper Baker intimated something about this sort of treatment being unfair to "God," Faithful Mary, he said, expressed herself as doubting very much whether Father Divine was God any more.

Corporal Baker also stated that Faithful Mary had explained that she might have lost her automobile, if she had not changed the registration in applying for her license plates.

She intimated, he said, that Father Divine would like to get her Rolls Royce.

New York, April 21 (AP)—Arthur A. Madison, the negro lawyer who handles the bothersome but necessary terrestrial affairs of Father Divine, opined today that the shiny-pated little negro, who is "God" to thousands of followers, is communing with spirits in "some distant heaven."

Which heaven it was, he professed, not to know. And neither did the police who are seeking the squat, little cult leader for questioning about the beating and stabbing of Harry Green, a white contractor of Weehawken, N. J.

Madison, in his office in West 123rd street, said he had not been in communication with Father Divine all last night or today.

Made No Arrangement
Madison said, too, he has made no arrangement to surrender Father Divine to the police to face a charge of felonious assault.

"There is no charge against him," he said.

Earlier Madison had indicated he expected to hear from Father Divine. "I won't tell you anything that amounts to anything, and what don't amount to anything I will tell you," he said.

Green was stabbed in the right while attending one of the evangelist services in his "kingdom" headquarters in West 115th street. The riot followed attempts of a friend of Green, Paul Camora, to serve Father Divine with a summons in a civil suit.

Nature of Summons
The summons was being served in behalf of Richard L. Baltimore, Jr., an attorney acting for Jessie V. Bird, a waitress who did not divulge her address.

Baltimore said his client gave Father Divine her life savings of $2,700 with the understanding, he would provide for her for the rest of her life. Instead, she complained, he practically "put her out."

Investigating the case, made the announcement that a homicide charge would be preferred if Green died, Baltimore said he understood Divine, or Baker, was at Stone Ridge, N. Y., headquarters of the "Promised Land" communal farming development.

FIND HAMMER, THE
New York, April 21 (AP)—The hammer which authorities believe was used to beat Miss Julia Nussbaum, night club violinist, to death last Sunday morning, has been identified.

Assistant District Attorney Saul Price said today, by two persons.

He disclosed that both Meyer Feder, part owner of the Normandie Hotel, and James Cockrell, superintendent and handyman at the place, told him the tool, found in the rehearsal studio where Miss Nussbaum was attacked, had recognized it.

Michael Rosenbaum, 31, looking agent and musician, who is alleged to have registered at the hotel last week, is charged with the murder. He had stolen the car on a trip and said he expected to complete presentation of the case to the grand jury today.

Rosenbaum, intoxicated, was taken into custody shortly after the killing was found. Authorities say he was the motive for the slaying.

Miss Jewett to Tell Alleged Betrayal Disciple of Divine

Los Angeles, April 21 (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Delight Jewett of Denver was called today to testify before the federal grand jury concerning her alleged betrayal by John Wuest Hunt.

Hunt, white follower of the negro cultist, Father Divine, has been charged with transporting Miss Jewett from Colorado to his Beverly Hills home for immoral purposes.

Hunt planned to tour the nation preaching for Father Divine, she said. Among his other ambitious plans, she told federal agents, was for her to travel to a desert island and become the mother of a new savior. She went to New York instead.

The high school girl, extricated from a New York "kingdom" of Father Divine by her own father, Norman Lee Jewett, arrived here yesterday with her parent.

In her story to federal agents, who arranged for her to appear against Hunt, Miss Jewett related she fell for Hunt's spell last year and at Christmas left home with him. At the time, she said, they registered at "Jesus the Christ and the Virgin Mary."

On other occasions Hunt has styled himself "John the Reclinator." He now is at liberty on $10,000 bail, pending grand jury action.

Shurter Changes Plea
George Shurter, 30, represented by Elmer Nathan, changed a former plea of not guilty to one of guilty to burglary. He was charged with taking a car from the Sherwood estate at Wallkill. He was sentenced to a year in the county jail.

Carry Case Monday
In the case of James J. Corry charged with having thrown a brick through the show window of the State jewelry store, and taking jewelry from the store, Corry J. Flanagan, who was assigned to the court to defend the man, asked to be relieved of the assignment. He said he had attempted to make a reasonable case with the case but the defendant could not see his point and he asked to be relieved. He was asked to stand trial and the case will be set for Monday at 2 o'clock.

Joseph Porcaro, who was charged with entering a garage of Herman Fredericks in Lloyd and stealing various articles, was sentenced to Clinton State Prison at Dannemora this morning by County Judge Frederick G. Traver for a term of from 10 to 20 years. Porcaro was sentenced as a second offender and the law makes mandatory the imposition of a stiff sentence. Porcaro and Stephen Pirger were both charged with burglary of the Fredericks place. Pirger is to be sentenced Monday at 2 o'clock.

Michael Nardone of Highland, who appeared for Porcaro, asked the court to take into consideration the fact that the defendant in a mental examination had been found to have the mentality of a person of nine years of age, that at the age of three years Porcaro's mother had left him to the care of an aged relative and that Porcaro had none of the advantages of the normal child.

SHURTER GETS YEAR

James J. Corry, Held in Styles Jewelry Store Robbery, Goes on Trial Monday.

Joseph Porcaro, who was charged with entering a garage of Herman Fredericks in Lloyd and stealing various articles, was sentenced to Clinton State Prison at Dannemora this morning by County Judge Frederick G. Traver for a term of from 10 to 20 years. Porcaro was sentenced as a second offender and the law makes mandatory the imposition of a stiff sentence. Porcaro and Stephen Pirger were both charged with burglary of the Fredericks place. Pirger is to be sentenced Monday at 2 o'clock.

Michael Nardone of Highland, who appeared for Porcaro, asked the court to take into consideration the fact that the defendant in a mental examination had been found to have the mentality of a person of nine years of age, that at the age of three years Porcaro's mother had left him to the care of an aged relative and that Porcaro had none of the advantages of the normal child.

Was Led, Counsel Says.

He said Porcaro had no car, but his companion, Pirger, had a car and had taken Porcaro around to various places and had led Porcaro on to commit crimes. All they took from the Fredericks place was some jewelry. Porcaro admitted that he had been convicted of a felony before. Strangely it was for an entrance to the Fredericks place before that he was convicted in 1935 and sentenced to Elmira Reformatory. At that time he was paroled and the sentence suspended.

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray said that Porcaro was one of the men whom the court had given a chance to make good but one apparently who did not profit by the chance. The burglary, third degree, to which Porcaro pleaded guilty, was his second conviction for a felony and there is another felony indictment pending against him.

Damms Sentenced
William G. Damms, of Ellenville, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry to a boarding house at Spring Glen, took a plea of guilty to grand larceny. Damms was also a second offender, having served a year in jail in 1935 for burglary. Lefty Lounsbury appeared for Damms and said that Damms and his companion, Slover, had entered the property but since it was Damms' second offense and it would carry a very severe sentence, his client was pleading guilty to the grand larceny charge and in view of the acceptance of that plea by the court he could not ask for further leniency since the law was specific as to the sentence which must be imposed. In accepting the plea of guilty to the lesser charge the court had already gone a long way toward leniency. Sentence for grand larceny is one-half that of burglary. Damms was sentenced to a term of from 5 to 19 years in Clinton State Prison.

Gus Prokopis' Case
Gus Prokopis, charged with taking the Packard car of one Lipchitz from Kingston and wrecking it at Cornwall, changed his former plea of not guilty to guilty to larceny and was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory but on request of the complainant for leniency the court suspended execution of sentence during good behavior. Prokopis was instructed to report to the probation officer Thursday and was remanded to the custody of the sheriff until then. Prokopis was represented by Thomas Plunkett. He claimed that he took the car to rain transportation home to New York. When he was passing Cornwall he made the mistake of not stopping for a traffic light and agent and musician, who is alleged to have registered at the hotel last week, is charged with the murder. He had stolen the car on a trip and said he expected to complete presentation of the case to the grand jury today.

Rosenbaum, intoxicated, was taken into custody shortly after the killing was found. Authorities say he was the motive for the slaying.

119 Acre Farm at Ulster Park Sold

The 119 acre farm at Ulster Park known as the Ephraim Lowe homestead property, located between the property of the Hercules Powder Company plant and Rensselaer Vineyard Farms, was sold Tuesday through the real estate agency of Mann and Gross of 277 Fair street.

This farm property years ago was one of the finest general farms in that locality. It is situated west of the West Shore railroad tracks and along the foot of Huxley Hill, and for years was operated by Daniel Heri and sons as a fruit and general farm. It was conveyed by Amelia G. Rosen of Brooklyn to Othello J. Contini, New York city real estate dealer. Mr. Contini is not a new owner to Ulster county, having owned property at Union Center for the past fourteen years.

Mr. Contini and his sons intend to make many improvements to the property. The old stone house will be remodeled and the barn, which was destroyed by fire last week, when a grass fire communicated to the structures, will be replaced and the farm will be operated as a dairy and fruit farm. There are several large vineyards on the property and Mr. Contini intends to set out a large orchard.

MRS. COUGHLIN DISAGREES WITH CORONER'S VERDICT

29 Stephan St.
Kingston, N. Y.
April 20, 1937

Editor Kingston Daily Freeman:

Having arrived first at scene of death of Mrs. Ellen Hicks at her home at 3.25 p. m. Monday, April 19, believe I should state some facts that were not published in press.

The coroner's verdict was suicide, to which I do not agree. As the usual interpretation of suicide is "the act of self-destruction by a person sound in mind and capable of measuring her moral responsibility," believe verdict unfair.

Mrs. Hicks' ailment was rheumatism, for which she was probably seeking relief through heat from her combination gas and coal range. As the coal fire was very low I believe additional heat was sought from illuminating gas burners as two were turned about one-half on. The other two jets had not been touched. It is very likely burners had been turned too low for flame with inevitable results following. A door to an adjacent room was open.

The disposition of deceased was very jovial and she was not given to despondency and had an abject abhorrence of suicide. In fairness to deceased, her relatives and friends, I believe I am duty bound to make known aforementioned facts.

Respectfully,
MRS. ED. COUGHLIN.

Legion Auxiliary Trip Is Planned

American Legion Auxiliary members and friends of Kingston Post No. 150 will please note that the date set for the ladies of the third district to call on the disabled veterans at Castle Point Hospital will be Saturday, April 24, and not Sunday, the 25th, as previously announced.

Legionnaires are also invited to call on their wartime comrades. The ladies of the auxiliary are collecting cigarettes and magazines, also homemade cookies for distribution among these men, most of whom are uncompensated and unable to afford small comforts to cheer the long days, months and even years of hospitalization. There are men in Castle Point Hospital today who have been there since 1918. It is estimated there are approximately 550 bed patients at present, not counting those who are up and able to look after themselves, more or less, and even do some small chores about the hospital. With these, the total is nearer 800.

It is hoped that many will make the trip on Saturday. Those unable to do so may send contributions of cigarettes or cookies by leaving them at the Memorial Building not later than noon on Saturday. Spring house-cleaning may bring to light magazines, puzzles or what-not, acceptable for whiling away the tedious.

Those visiting Castle Point on Saturday will meet in the lobby of the main building at 2 p. m. Ulster, Greene, Sullivan, Columbia, Albany, Orange and Schoharie counties will be represented.

Midwest Grain Picture Spotted

Chicago, April 21 (UP).—In the Great Northwest, center of the nation's spring wheat supply, the April picture of grain crop prospects is spotted with optimism and pessimism.

Farmers who hope to produce the first 200,000,000 bushel spring wheat crop in five years and to bolster the nation's depleted stocks of corn, oats and other grain, again were scanning skies anxiously for signs of rain as they progress with seeding for the 1937 harvest.

The end of the long drought was seen in some sections. Rainfall has been beneficial in many parts of the Dakotas, Montana and Minnesota, where the bulk of spring wheat is grown. In spots, there has been so much rain that seeding has been delayed.

Beneath the soil, however, where a reservoir of abundant moisture is needed to tide crops through the dry, hot days of summer, serious moisture deficiency persisted in many areas. There, a repetition of the crop disaster of 1936 was possible. It was feared, unless ample rain is received during the growing period.

C. COLUMBUS TO DISCOVER AMERICA IN 1942!

Funny how familiar numbers can get themselves twisted around. Just recently there appeared in print the startling news that Columbus discovered America in 1942.

It's this getting the right numbers in the wrong order that is a frequent cause of "wrong numbers" on the telephone. A wrong number usually means that two people lose time, and sometimes temper.

So we make this suggestion: Unless you are positive of the number, you may save time by looking it up in the directory first. Another way is to keep a special list of telephone numbers which you frequently call. It's a great help in making right numbers out of wrong numbers. New York Telephone Company.

Catholic Camps In Ulster County

Each year to make their more effective, 24 summer camps and homes of New York Catholic Charities are making early preparations for an active season during which it is estimated from reports of previous years, approximately 10,000 children will be accommodated.

Two camps and one summer home located in Ulster county. Catholic camps are operated under diocesan, parochial and other auspices and provide boys and girls of the archdiocese with healthful, safe and enjoyable recreation at reasonable rates and in some cases, gratis.

During the past year considerable attention has been given to improving the management and equipment of the summer camps and also in enlarging the facilities wherever possible. The religious and lay staffs at the camps are trained workers having completed a camp leaders' course under the auspices of the division of social action of Catholic Charities.

This course was started several years ago when it became apparent that the summer camp was important as a character building agency to supplement the home, the church and the school. Youth and its problems has always been one of the major concerns of Catholic Charities and camps are part of the program of the Catholic Youth Organization of the social action division in providing leisure time activities for youth.

Summer homes of which Catholic Charities has nine, are health promoting agencies for smaller children from dreary tenements and hot city streets, whose parents are unable to afford vacations for them. Two or three weeks in the country seems little enough for these children, but even brief vacations have proved of great value in helping to build up resistance to disease.

Last summer these homes were able to give vacations to 4,785 boys and girls, an increase of 789 over the previous year. Hundreds of other children, who also would have profited greatly by a stay in the country, had to be turned away because of limited facilities.

In Ulster county there is Mary Help of Christians Summer Home at Mount Mongola, Ellenville, where last year 86 boys and 235 girls provided with free vacations. Expenditures, the annual report shows, were $5,596.

At the home, underprivileged children are kept two weeks, or longer if necessary, during which time they receive nourishing food, long hours of sleep, fresh air and sunshine. This is the only real vacation most of these youngsters get and the time they spend at the home is a tonic that lasts them all year 'round.

As nearly as possible the program at Mary Help of Christians follows that of any well organized camp. Hikes through the woods, camp fires and such outdoor exercise as their health permits, is enjoyed by the children whose ages range from five to 12.

Before being sent to the home, which is managed by Mission Help, Servants of Sacred Heart, each child is given a thorough physical examination. The doctor's recommendation guides the children's treatment while there and even after being returned to their own homes.

One of the largest of the Catholic boys' camps, Camp St. Agnes, is located in Ulster county at New Paltz. Under the management of the Rev. John J. E. O'Brien, 675 boys were accommodated there last year.

The other camps in Ulster county are Camp Sunset at Plattekill, directed by the Rev. Aloysius C. DiNeen for girls between the ages of seven and 17, where 150 spent their vacations last year, and Camp Wapack at Mt. Tremper for boys from seven to 17 years of age. The Rev. Joseph B. Scully directs activities at Mt. Tremper.

Activities at all camps follow much the same lines, the children taking part in athletic sports such as tennis, baseball, hockey, volleyball, croquet, etc. There are also hikes through the woods, picnics, treasure hunts and camp fires. Swimming is among the major activities, the children being divided into groups according to their ability. The Red Cross Life saving course is taught, also water polo and games of all kinds and several water parents are usually arranged during the course of the season. Canoeing and rowboating are also available for advanced swimmers.

Other camp activities include dramatics, story telling, handcraft instruction, dancing and singing, the program being arranged to provide a wide variety of interest in order that all of the children may be kept happy and occupied.

CLEANUP TIME

One of the first and sure signs of spring is cleanup activity upon the part of the housewives, who are busy cleaning and refurnishing the homes.
 Other signs of spring can be seen in the farmers plowing and sowing their fields, the planting of gardens and communities starting improvement projects.

Winter is apt to be a time of general neglect, partly because of severe weather and partly because of the press of other matters in that busy season. Vacant lots, yards and even streets become unsightly. Now is the time for a thorough spring cleaning, extending through the city in the interest of health, safety and civic progress. When a movement to paint up, cleanup and beautify a community, it leaves in its wake a healthier, happier place in which to live. From the standpoint of fire safety alone, the movement pays big dividends. The records show many a disastrous fire has been caused by rubbish and litter. Drop a cigarette or a cigar butt into an accumulation of trash and a fire may follow, furthermore old rubbish is always susceptible to "spontaneous ignition."

If the spring cleanup movement is carried out wholeheartedly by every citizen by burning all trash in incinerators and under close supervision, disease germs will be hit a hard blow. Every citizen and every business will benefit socially and financially from this movement.

WAGES AND PRICES

Steelworkers, who were jubilant when they got their general raise, have had a disillusioning experience, writes Raymond Moley in the News-Week. "Landlords in the steel towns immediately raised" rents, prices went up in stores; and within no time at all, the local cost of living completely overtook the new wages." The increase doubtless seemed natural enough to the landlords and merchants who had been losing money, but the result may be unfortunate for everybody.

The steel manufacturers themselves, says Mr. Moley, wisely raised their prices as little as possible, hardly covering increased costs. But many manufacturers who fabricate their basic product were not so moderate. Thus: "A manufacturer of some more or less important gadget made of steel grants his employees, let us say, a 10 per cent increase in wages. Then he finds that the price of steel has gone up 10 per cent.
 Whereupon he increases the prices of his product 20 per cent. Analyze this: The direct labor cost of his product amounts to 15 per cent of the selling price of his product.
 That, by the way, is a fairly typical figure in a great many important industries. Raw material cost is 25 per cent. Well, 10 per cent of 25 per cent is only 1 1/2 per cent and 10 per cent of 25 per cent is only 2 1/2 per cent. The manufacturer's costs in other words have gone up 4 per cent —but he lacks on 20 per cent."

And why not, if he can get it?
 For this reason, says Professor Moley,
 "That is the sure way to dry up markets and insure the early recurrence of depression."

MALE HOME ECONOMISTS

A feeling of mingled admiration and pity is stirred by the tale of the commuting husbands in the east who decided to do something about the rising cost of living. Their reformers met daily on the 8:06 a. m. train and during the run into New York discussed, naturally enough, the way domestic expenses were rising.
 They were charitable in their discussion. Wives, they admitted, could not be expected to have the same business intelligence men developed in their offices in the daily progress of bread-winning. Wouldn't it be a good idea to take a little of that business efficiency into the home and to teach their wives about thrift and household management? It would they decided. An organization was the thing. They would call it the Home Conservation Movement. They would invite other commuting gentlemen to join. They would map a program.

About that time the beautiful plan met some beautiful obstacles. Wives got wind of it all. They thought the project silly. The president of the new organization arrived at his home one fine evening to find a sit-down strike. Before he could get his dinner he had to promise to pay all bills without question and to drop out of the organization. Other husbands decline to reveal their own experiences. They agree the plan is off.
 Women, statisticians could tell them, have long done about 80 per cent of the nation's buying, and rather than their own ability to make a dollar 20 a little farther than seems possible.

TRAFFIC STUDY IN SCHOOL

Something ought to be accomplished for highway safety by the plan adopted in New York. A state law makes it compulsory to teach traffic regulation and observance in every school grade and in all the public and private schools. There will be a board of regents to govern the instruction. No boy or girl can escape learning essential facts about the operation of cars, the control of traffic and the use of the streets and highways by pedestrians.

Such procedure in every state might really accomplish something.
 And the effect might be felt more quickly than many people think.
 Society wouldn't necessarily have to wait until the children grow up, for traffic reforms and reduction of automobile accidents. While they themselves are learning, they will be teaching their elders.

HUNGER PAINS

We have been told that we should not eat any food until Nature sends us a warning by giving us "hunger" pains; that if we follow Nature we'll never have any upset of the stomach or intestine. We have been further advised that the infant teaches this lesson—to wait until we feel hunger pains before we eat—as it would sleep all the time if hunger pains did not wake it up to take in some more food.

Now we all have hunger pains at times but research physicians tell us that even when there is still food in the stomach the hunger pains may develop. These hunger pains are due to the contraction of the muscle walls of the stomach (they act just like the opening and closing of your hand). "As the stomach becomes empty its muscular walls contract from 10 to 25 or more times, after which it becomes quiet again and then following this, the contractions occur again, and then again the stomach becomes quiet. If no food is taken these pains become stronger and occur often. In the child the quiet periods (when there are no contractions and pains) lasts 10 minutes to 1 hour, and from 1 to 3 hours in the adult.

In his book "The Control of Hunger in Health and Disease," Dr. A. J. Carlson says that with strong hunger contractions there is an unpleasant or even painful sensation in the region of the stomach. While these contractions are painful enough to make an infant cry, they are often unnoticed by the adult, but there is a feeling of weakness, irritability, and an inability to concentrate, and also a feeling of tiredness, fatigue, and lack of desire to work.

Now if these symptoms were due to just tiredness or fatigue, rest would bring relief, thus Dr. Howard W. Haggard and Leon A. Greenberg, point out in their book "Diet and Physical Efficiency":

"The feeling of fatigue and irritability that shows the need for food is not relieved by rest but is relieved by food. And the food that appears to be most needed is sugar." Thus the piece of bread covered with brown sugar our mothers gave us after school was really a "scientific" method of preventing quarrels and crying spells.

A lump of sugar, a piece of taffy, a chocolate bar or a banana at mid-afternoon should relieve those feelings that were formerly thought to be due to fatigue.

A runner in a silk stocking will attract more attention than any track meet.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: A storm breaks and every thing starts happening as Michael, his sweetheart Gay Palmer and a friend (Jim Wells) reach his aunt's home, Farrington Bluff, for a February weekend. In the night, Mike awakens me as a chimney creeps, shouting that Jude Blinshop, the fourth guest, and the Skipper, his tall and sneaky younger aunt, have disappeared. With William, the chauffeur, a gun and flashlight, Michael and I start to search the island. As the boat rocks in his excitement and falls into the black, churning surf.

Chapter Five

The Body On The Bluff

EVEN as I realized that the dark object was Michael, William moved. He threw the coils, my heavy one on the end Michael was yards to the right of us and the coils went straight out. But William's eye was good. In a flash Michael was washed toward us, and the coils were blown toward him. As they met I lent my free hand to the tug, in one surgical swell he came in. We pulled like madmen. Headlong, Michael was tumbled onto the ledge.

He lay, horribly still. Throwing the coils to me, William bent over.
 With one lunge he heaved Michael over his shoulder, and slowly, laboriously, we edged our way back to the path. Despite the care with which we laid him down, one arm was twisted under him. Blood was flowing from a gash on his head.

Luckily my hip pocket still contained the flask with which I had reconciled myself to that ride in the tumble-seat. I raised his head and forced a little whiskey into him. Possibly minutes ticked by. The roar of the blood in my ears drowned out the combined wind and was impossible to catch what he said. He insisted on getting to his feet and stood there swaying, covered with blood, dripping wet, and altogether unpleasant to look at.

William roared, "Back to the house, sir!"
 We thought Michael understood, for he started along the path before we could get the overcoat around him. As we came abreast of the tennis courts, Michael paused and signaled for the light. The backstop was down, a tangled jumble of wire, and the wet clay was a soft mush. In between the two courts, running straight toward the boathouse, a set of heavy footprints showed that someone had been too impatient to take the path.
 The Skipper? Michael was off like a shot.

At the drive we lost them. Too much water had poured over that gravel to leave any sign of anything.
 It seemed to me that wherever she was, the Skipper would agree that Michael needed attention at once. We were directly in front of the house. I grabbed him and shoved him, struggling and protesting, up the steps and into the house.

One Arm Hangs Useless

WE were a mess, all three of us, dripping and coatless. William still wore rubber boots and a sou'- wester. His trousers and his pajama top were plastered against him as if by muck, and his lips were blue.
 But Michael was Exhibit A. His face

"Michael's face was a pasty white; his clothes were in shreds."

"was a pasty white, smeared with blood. His right arm hung useless at his side and his clothes were in shreds."
 "Damn you!" His roar gathered volume as William closed the door behind us. "Let go of me, I'll—"
 But he didn't do anything. A piercing scream from the dining-room announced that he has been discovered.
 M. Farrington bore down upon us, kebbing as he came.

"Michael! Michael! My poor boy, what—"

I caught a glimpse of Gay behind her and of Maggie behind Gay when the Skipper explained her absence.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—First they wouldn't —then they would!

That's just a description of the public's attitude toward one of Irving Berlin's best songs, a song he never hears without crossing his fingers and chuck-ling all the way home.

Back in 1918 he wrote "Easter Bunnies," but it never became popular. Then, several years ago, he revised it as a part of "Easter Parade," and it blossomed into the most whistled, warbled, and played tune of the day. That's why Berlin never tosses away a manuscript. Wise in the ways of the public's fancy, he realizes that chicken today often means hash or croquettes tomorrow.

NOW back to 1918: Berlin was busy at that time providing Fannie Brice with appropriate dities to sing in Flo Ziegfeld's shows.
 One of the best was "Yiddle on the Fiddle." Another tune that wowed
 'em was "Hollah for Moah."
 This, however, was by no means Mlle. Brice's first acquaintance with the musical compositions of Senor Berlin. As far back as 1910, when she was the $40-a-week soubrette in "College Girls," she was making her first big splash with a soulful number called "Sadie Salome." It was then that Ziegfeld, realizing he had a star, tore up her old contract and offered her a new one for $75 a week.
 Later, Berlin became rich too.

THE latest additions to the co-tierie of first nighters include Odor de Azevedo and Dulcina de Moraes, Brazil's wealthiest actors and comparable in the pampas country to our own Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. And why are they here? Well, for one thing, President Roosevelt invited them when he was in South America shortly after his re-election. Then, too, they would like to have the Brazilian rights to "Tovarich," the French play about Russian aristocrats who hire themselves out as servants. . . . If this quest is successful, Brazil will be the 13th country in which this comedy has been presented.

Denouncing one of those pests who interferes with his practicing, Frank Black, pianist, barked this quotation from Rubenstein:
 "If I neglect to practice one day, I know it. Two days and my friends know it. If I neglect it three days, my public will know it."

Christopher's Second Prank

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WAVING in the sunlight was a clothes line and on the clothes line were a lot of nice, freshly washed clothes. The ground underneath was of dirt and cinders.

Tucking the note under his wing, Christopher flew up to the clothes line. One by one, he pulled off the clothes pins and dropped the freshly washed clothes to the ground. It took him time to do this, but no one was around and it did not seem as though he needed to hurry.

"This is really wicked," he told himself. "But perhaps the one who washed these clothes needs to get out in the good air and after washing them once more will have to hang them up again. Yes, maybe that will be good for her. She'll get added exercise first in doing the wash a second time."

"Exercise is good for anyone. I know how my crowish spirits droop when I can't spread my strong wings every so often."
 But in his crow's heart of hearts he knew he was being very, very naughty.

"They'd spank me if they caught me," he thought. "I'll have to rush away as soon as I see anyone." Suddenly there was a loud shout of anger and great, great annoyance.

"Just see what that crow has done!" someone called. "From where did he come? Oh dear, oh dear, my nice fresh wash! I'll get an old stick and drive him off."

Christopher was about to fly away when another thought came to him. "Do I dare? Do I dare?" he asked himself.

Leaves Note for Rodents.

They Obliging Depart

Greene, Mr. — Eugene A. Con-lert, building inspector, looking through a house here, found this note stuffed in a rat hole in the cellar:

"Mr. Rat: Would you be so kind as not to stop here long as I haven't very much, but my next door neighbor, Mr. —, has plenty, so it would make you a good home."

The housewife explained that a few weeks ago her house was overrun with rats and that she had tried everything to get rid of them. Then she remembered that her grandmother had said the best way was to write a note. So she did, and immediately the rats left.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—If ever your visit to Washington falls on you, take an hour off from your survey of the gold crested department of justice building and watch the house make laws.

Never was there a place more given over to frank, unalloyed disorder than the house when it sets out to debate a serious bill.

They don't talk to persuade the opposition, and anyway the opposition probably is out in the corridor smoking a cigarette. They bellow their views into "The Congressional Record" where their constituents may read them, although were it not for the competing din all constituents as far west as Duluth might very well hear them while completing the spring plowing.

Rules Bar Filibusters

AT THE same moment the member from Georgia cries out in agony against loss of states' rights in the anti-lynch bill, a half dozen of his fellow 10 yards up the aisle will throw back their heads in a guffaw at the latest ribald wheeze.

As the house managers have woven a network of rules to trap any rebellious clique which might be tempted to start a runaway filibuster. So this weapon of minorities, available in the senate, is easily curbed in the house.

Yet for almost every rule seeking to limit the number and duration of speeches there are outlets like airholes in the ice, through which submerged congressmen can blow a public bubble. Unless the house managers slap down the rule prohibiting amendments, a congressman can add his own voice to the general hubbub by proposing an amendment, upon which he and a few associates can speak five minutes each.

Master Control

TO A reader of the record the amount of copy that a speaker can cram into a five-minute speech is simply bewildering. But that is taken care of in another manner.
 At the end of five minutes of speaking the member simply picks up his pages, mutters something about "privilege to extend my remarks," and hands the whole hour-long text of the speech to the reporter who obligingly inserts it in the record, lock, stock and barrel. Once there, it can be run off in multiplied number by the government-printer for mailing to the voters.

But underneath the boiling disorder there is a master-work of control and when the minute arrives for 400-odd congressmen to make up their minds on the fate of the nation the speaker slaps down his gavel, even though it crashes in the midst of a split infinitive.
 Then in true camp-meeting style the members stand to be counted, the noise not lessened but the speaking ended.

OLD ULSTER DAYS

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Author of "Down the Vista of the Years," "A City is Born" and Other Stories and Historical Sketches.

Chapter 5
 Old Cement Days

A rather remarkable coincidence in the cement business in Rondout, flourishing some 30 years ago, was the fact that both the first superintendent and the last of the old Newark Lime and Cement Co., were also mayors of Kingston. James G. Lind-sleigh, who became the first superintendent of the company, served Kingston as its first mayor, when the city was born, while the last superintendent at the local plant was the late James E. Phinney, who served the city as mayor during 1900 and 1901, and who was still serving as company superintendent when the cement plant closed down in 1905, after an existence over half a century.

It was in the winter and spring of 1850 when preparations were made for building kilns and mills at Rondout for the Newark Lime and Cement Co., from plans mainly drafted by Calvin Tompkins, who was organizer and chief stockholder of the company. The work was so far completed the following Spring that manufacture of cement was commenced, and the business continued to expand until it proved one of the most successful in the history of Kingston, furnishing work for hundreds of men, employed in the quarries and in the mills.

The Newark Lime and Cement Co., owned many acres of land, extending from Hasbrouck avenue to Delaware avenue and even beyond that. So extensive was the work of quarrying carried on that the entire hill is undermined with quarry holes. One entrance to the quarries was on the High road, or East Union street, just off Hasbrouck avenue, while the other entrance was at the foot of the Delaware avenue hill, at Abruzz street.

Long after the quarries closed down adventurous boys would arm themselves with matches and candles and spend the summer days exploring the quarry holes. Some years ago there was a cave-in at the entrance to the quarries just off Hasbrouck avenue closing all access to the quarry, while for some years the city used the entrance to the Abruzz street end of the quarry for a city dumping ground, and for years used some of the old quarry holes for dumping purposes.

As the rock was quarried in the hill, it was brought out and placed through the mill and the finished product was then loaded in big cement barges and shipped to market by water. So extensive was the manufacture of cement that for years the shipment of cement to market made up a large part of the river tonnage.

The cement industry in the early days not only was carried on extensively in Rondout but also at Rosendale, where in recent years there had been a revival of the industry.

The Ulster county cement in the early days of its history was considered the best cement on the market, and historians of early Ulster days record the fact that Rosendale cement was used in the construction of the famous Brooklyn bridge, as well as in other famous structures throughout the country.

This cement produced in Ulster county was a slow drying mixture, and took approximately seven days to harden, when the entire mass would practically return to stone, so hard did it become.

Probably the first structure to be erected in Ulster county that was built entirely of cement was the Children's Chapel on Abruzz street, which in later years has become widely known throughout the city as the Congregational Church of which the Rev. John Widenreich is the present pastor. This church was organized some years ago with the late Rev. F. A. Now as its first pastor.

Also it will be recalled by older residents that when the present school building on Delaware avenue, now known as Public School No. 4, was erected, cement from the mill of the Newark Lime and Cement Co. was used.

The walls of both the school and the church still stand so hard and ex-

Cheer... Isn't it true you always find yourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people? Then why not make an effort to confer the same pleasure on others? Think cheerfully, speak with a smile, help the world to turn up the corners of its mouth.

Movie Star—And is this the home of your ancestors? Bridgegroom—Yes, dearest. Movie Star—Well, it looks very familiar. Are you sure I haven't been married to you before?

A wise saying may not keep you out of jail, but if it shortens your sentence, you have reason to respect it.

Mother—No, Junior, for the third time I tell you that you cannot have any more dessert.

Junior—All right, but I don't see where I'd get the idea that you're always changing your mind.

If you would have long friendships, cultivate a short memory.

The telephone rang and the new maid answered it.

"Who is this?" again came the voice. "I don't know who it is," said the girl, "I can't see you."

Second Movie Actress—Er—er I believe I've got his card in my bag somewhere.

Sued As Slenderer

Fred Rosenstern, president of the school board at Flintridge, L. I. is being sued for $3,000 by Mrs. Mary Greiner, principal of the little school, who charges he slandered her after she had declined his invitation to a rendezvous in a secluded farmhouse.

Captain Hammond Died on Tuesday

Captain Gustavus A. Hammond, for years a widely known Hudson river captain, and for over 20 years connected with the DuBois drug store on North Front street, died in this city on Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock, aged 87 years. Funeral services will be held from the late home, 139 Highland avenue, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with burial in Montrose cemetery.

Captain Hammond was born in the town of Exopus on December 14, 1849, the son of the late Jacob DeWitt Hammond and Eliza Linnet Delamater Hammond, but had been a resident of Kingston practically all his life. For many years he was a captain and pilot on the Hudson river. He was first in the employ of the old Knickerbocker Ice Company and later with the Cornell Steamboat Company as captain of the tug Dr. David Kennedy and the Earl. He retired from active service on the river about 25 years ago and since then had been connected with the DuBois pharmacy on North Front street.

Captain Hammond never married and is survived by two brothers, Allen S. Hammond of 161 Clifton avenue, and George Hammond of West Hurley, and a sister, Miss Frances Hammond with whom he made his home. Captain Hammond was a member of the Reformed Church of the Comforter and when a young man served several times on the official board of the church. In politics Captain Hammond was a staunch Republican.

Personally Captain Hammond was of the type of man who found pleasure in helping those with whom he came in contact. He was always thoughtful and considerate of others, and one of his marked traits was his kindness which was manifested in his manner and the tone of his voice. Considerate of the feelings of all those with whom he came in daily contact there was never any sting in his words because there was no malice in his thoughts.

During the many years that Captain Hammond had been a resident of Kingston he became widely known and was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

The Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., pastor of the Roundout Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the services on Friday afternoon.

In the death of Captain Hammond the city has lost one of its outstanding citizens.

Billions of pounds of high explosives have been transported by the railroads of the United States and Canada in the past ten years without an explosion and without any person being killed or injured.

Lawton's Big Fish Is First Entered

The first entry in the L. S. Winne & Co. big fish contest was made Saturday by Robert Lawton of 66 Hoffman street and set a pretty good mark for future contestants to shoot at. It was a German Brown trout that measured 26 1/2 inches in length and weighed five pounds. Lawton caught the trout Saturday in the upper basin of the Ashokan reservoir, using live bait.

The Winne Co. this year is offering three prizes for the biggest fish caught during the season—one each for the biggest trout, biggest pickerel and biggest bass. Prizes will be $5 worth of merchandise, to be selected by the winner at the end of the season. In addition the company will represent Field & Stream for entries in the National prize contest sponsored by that publication.

The WORLD of STAMPS

Five years ago the state of Manchoukoo was founded. Now a special set of two stamps has been issued to commemorate the anniversary.

The designs are somewhat symbolic. The 1 1/2-fen carnation pictures a huge sun rising above a plowed field. The 3-f green has a shadowgraph of the capital, Hsinking, showing modern and ancient buildings with men and carriages in the foreground.

This issue boosts to 80 the total of varieties catalogued for the Manchoukoo since it began putting out stamps in 1932. Quite a number have pictured Kang Teh, both as chief executive (then Pu-Yi) and later as emperor. Others have been scenic or symbolic.

Outside of watermark changes, inscription alterations and commemorative inserts, the first basic designs, showing a pagoda at Liaoning and the emperor, have been continued for general postage use.

Uncle Sam's Territories

The special territorial stamps calling attention to Uncle Sam's possessions will begin to appear in June, if present postoffice plans materialize. That would be some time after the last of the army-navy set, the 5-centers, have gone into the mails.

One 3-cent stamp is intended for each territory—Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. They will come out at approximately monthly intervals. Designs are expected to be scenic.

Meanwhile collectors still discuss the 4-cent army stamp which shows General Robert E. Lee wearing the two stars of a lieutenant-colonel instead of the three stars of a general on his collar. Collectors insist the missing star constitutes an error, but the Bureau of Engraving and Printing says it is hidden at the back of Lee's collar.

Duce's Libya Highway

The opening of Libya's new 1,200-mile military highway, traversing the northern part of the Italian possession in north Africa, brought forth four new stamps—two airmails and two regular postage.

The road, just opened by Mussolini, runs from Egypt to French Tunisia and connects the Italian airports at Tobruk, Benghazi, Sirte and Tripoli along the Mediterranean coast.

A huge triumphal arch, located midway on the road, is pictured on the regular postage. The arch is inscribed in Latin: "O beneficent sun, thou seest nothing greater than the city of Rome." The values are 50 centesimal red brown and 1.25 lire blue.

The airmails, 50-c purple and 1-lire black, illustrate ancient ruins, with a plane in the upper left corner. Both designs include the Italian words for "Inauguration of the Coast Road, March 15, 1937."

Industrial Deaths In Month of March

Albany, N. Y., April 21.—During the month of March, the State Department of Labor received preliminary reports of industrial accidents causing the death of 117 men and 7 women employed in various New York state industries covered by the Workmen's Compensation Law, according to a statement issued today by Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews. Thirty of the 124 fatalities were reported by manufacturing industries, 25 by construction 23 by trade, 19 by service, 18 by transportation, 6 by public employment and 3 by other industries. A tabulation of fatal accidents compiled under the direction of Dr. E. B. Patton, director of the Division of Statistics and Information in the Department of Labor, shows that the March reports number 12 more than in February but 15 less than in March, 1936. Eighty-two of the deaths occurred in the New York city area and 42 up-state, of which 13 occurred in the Buffalo, 14 in the Albany, 9 in the Syracuse and 6 in the Rochester area. Death benefits were claimed for 174 dependent survivors consisting of 79 widows, 78 children, 11 parents, 5 sisters and 1 brother.

Types of Fatal Accidents
Falls, the leading cause of death this month, included five down stairs, three from scaffolds, two from ladders and one from a window. A locomotive fireman fell into a coal pit, a laborer fell into an excavation and a gardener fell through the chute leading from a hay loft. Of the falls from other elevations, six were from buildings being constructed, one from the top of a pile driver, one from a storage tank and one from a table top. Four falls on the ground level were due to slippery surfaces made so by ice, grease, water and floor wax.

The twenty-two vehicle accidents reported this month involved 17 automobiles, two tractors, an airplane and two subway trains. Nine men were killed in auto collisions, six were struck by automobiles and two fell from moving auto trucks. Two workers were fatally injured when tractors were backed into them. A boat captain was killed in an airplane crash. Two trackmen were run over by subway trains. Eighteen fatal injuries occurred while workers were handling heavy and sharp objects. Of these 12 were due to over lifting, two to being struck by the object handled, two to sharp objects slipping and two to elevators struck and fatally injured six employees. Four men and one woman died as a result of complications that developed in cuts and bruises inflicted when they struck against stationary objects. Only one death was due to machinery this month but elevators or other hoisting apparatus took seven lives. A pump operator was instantly killed when his clothing caught on a revolving shaft and he was thrown violently to the concrete floor. Three men and two women were caught between elevators and floor ladders. A brewery worker fell down an elevator shaft. A laborer in a steel mill was crushed between a crane magnet and a steel bugle. Contact with high tension lines caused the electrocution of two construction men, a factory electrician and a college physicist. Two hat blockers were fatally burned when the sizing they were using on straw hats ignited. An apartment superintendent's clothes caught fire when he attempted to extinguish some blazing curtains. A watchman was burned to death when his clothing caught fire as he stood warming himself over a can of hot coals. Other reports showed 11 deaths due to poisonous substance. A lead smelter and a painter were victims of lead poisoning. Carbon monoxide from automobile exhausts claimed two more lives. Fumes from cadmium plating caused the death of a hardware worker and a police sergeant were assaulted and killed while at work. Three deaths due to pneumonia were attributed to working in cold places after having been in hot ones.

Sometimes a man lies when he simply smiles and says nothing.

Construction Work On Catskill Branch

Quite some construction work is being carried on by the New York Central Railroad on the Catskill Mountain Branch, formerly the Ulster and Delaware Railroad, as an insurance against flood conditions causing washouts and tying up the line.

Larger pipes are being placed along the right of way in the vicinity of Oneonta for this purpose of providing better drainage. Some of these replacements are 60 and 63 inch concrete pipes calculated to take care of any cloud bursts or high water, while some 36 inch cast iron pipe is replacing 12, 20 and 24 inch pipe that has been found inadequate in former rainy seasons.

Along the Esopus creek, in the vicinity of Phenicia and further up the line, loads of riprap taken from the new mid-town tunnel at Weehawken, are being used as fill for additional protection against high water. Yesterday 15 cars of this riprap were received and dumped in designated locations. Loads of cinders from Weehawken are also being received and dumped for ballast.

It is planned to complete the laying of heavier rail on the Hunter branch this year. For the past two years the company has been replacing the original 62 pound rails, and this year's program calls for new frogs and switches and 80 pound rail in the Hunter yard, including the side tracks.

The main line from Kingston to Oneonta now has been entirely relaid with heavier rail, some 90 pound and other 105 pound, replacing the 62 and 72 pound rails used by the old Ulster and Delaware line, and the task of placing heavier rail on all side tracks will soon be completed.

CHARGE LOWE CONCEALED PART OF WIFE'S PROPERTY

New York, April 21 (AP)—The sisters of the late Lilyan Tashman, actress, charged in State Supreme Court today that her husband, Edmund Lowe, the actor, failed to disclose in administration proceedings in Los Angeles "a great deal of property which actually belonged to his wife at the time of her death."

The charge was contained in an affidavit, submitted to Justice Julius Miller by Benjamin Jaffee, counsel for the sisters, Jennie Rabinson and Mattie Blumenson, in support of their motion to examine Lowe before trial of their suit to recover $121,750 from him.

This amount, the sisters claim, represents the value of furs and jewelry, left by Miss Tashman, to which they were entitled under an agreement they made with Lowe on March 26, 1934, five days after his wife's death.

Lowe is on his way to England where he will remain until June. An affidavit, submitted by his counsel, Joseph W. Landes, today charged an examination was sought for the purpose of "harassing and annoying" the actor. He has denied making an agreement with the sisters.

Justice Miller reserved decision.

Second Night Of "Y" Campaign

The Y. M. C. A. campaign is running ahead of last year with all indications of reaching the top. Simultaneously with this campaign for $19,127.17 is the Amsterdam campaign for $18,222.17.

Chairman Clarence Dumm, for the second time called the workers to order for the second report. After thanking the ladies of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church and the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church for their services, the "Surprise Quartet," consisting of Fred Van Deusen, E. Schutt, R. Loughran, and C. Wondery, was called upon and was it a surprise?

The speaker of the evening, Roger Loughran, was then presented. "In the country today," he said, "there is taking place many changes both political and economical affecting all the people, children and grown-ups. They number four.

"First, the effect on the people. They are disgruntled—disappointed. People ask why they should give when every one will be taken care of. Young people say that there is no more individualism. Everything is so organized, there is no chance for them.

"Second, mental laziness. In a campaign men that do the job show that they are not mentally lazy. In prehistoric times there existed 13 classes of creatures, today five are left. The human race is one. The reason that all did not exist is because all did not have the ability to adjust.

"Third, today we have the uneducated voter. Instead of 10 per cent voting as in days of John Adams, today 25 per cent vote. The need is for more education, better schools, not cutting of the budget and staff.

"Fourth, gradual deterioration in American character. In our society we have very good people who constitute the very good church going people, honest, loyal. We also have very bad people who constitute the criminals, gangsters. In between we have the great masses of people who represent the cross section of our American people. These masses are kept in the balance, are held up by such forces, as the church, Y. M. C. A., good movies and reading matter. The forces that hold them down are such as liberal law. The Y. M. C. A. is a rising force.

"In Kingston there are people with excuses and people with reason. In Kingston there are people who will give to the 'Y' and if workers will do their job with as much enthusiasm as they sing, there is no reason why success isn't assured."

Clarence Rowland, former president of the Kingston "Y", was called upon and stated that for the past seven years he had been connected with the campaign as an officer. This year as a worker it seems that success is assured and the top near at hand.

Gilbert Richter, president of the Boys' Hi-Y Club, was present and was complimented on the program Hi-Y has conducted this year.

In reviewing the division standings it shows the Shuttles still ahead with 64 subscriptions and $413, the New with 55 subscriptions and $405, the Raquets with 31 subscriptions and $157, R. H. Broughton retaining the cup for the second night.

The men who are not attending and who are working their cards, are holding back the campaign organization, it was stated.

The men who have qualified as stars by securing at least $72 are W. Finch, E. Schutt, E. Dewitt, E. Cornwell, W. Hunsinger, E. Haines.

Tonight at 6 o'clock will be the third report and H. H. Flemming will be the speaker.

Madrid Suffers Heavy Gun Fire

Madrid, April 21 (AP)—The tenth day of incessant insurgent shellfire ended today with a total of 34 dead within Madrid today and forced a grave test of the city's resistance under a heavy half year of siege.

Thirty-two bodies were hauled to morgues this evening, the grim harvest of today's incessant cannonade from the heaviest gun emplacement in the city's suburbs.

At least 100 more were injured today, a third of them gravely. The fatalities made the toll approximately 150 for the 10 days of bombardment.

The newest phase of the bombardment began before dawn and lasted with the heaviest of shells all day. Something like 250 shells were poured into this city of a million people; Madrid's Gran Via, the "Broadway," was made a major front of war.

After a combined resistance of 125 days in 1936, the former citizens of Madrid have applied for final naturalization papers.

They have been residents of Kingston practically their entire married life. Mrs. Wolfenstein was the former Harriet Krom, of Saugerties, while Mr. Wolfenstein at the time of his marriage was a resident of East Kingston. They have four children all living, who were present at the celebration. The children are Oscar Wolfenstein, Mrs. Jeanie Pardo, Clarence Wolfenstein and Mrs. Helen Wendland, all of this city. At the present time Mr. Wolfenstein is employed by the Board of Public Works, and both he and his wife enjoy the friendship of a large circle of friends. Saturday evening, April 17, Mr. and Mrs. Wolfenstein were the guests of honor at a dinner at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webber, of 135 Stephan street. Among out of town guests at the dinner were Mr. Wolfenstein's sisters and brother from Stockport, Newburgh and Troy.

4 Pitchers Back on Glory Road After Yesterday's Ball Games

Henrich Now A Yonk

Tom Henrich, declared a free agent after he had asked for an investigation into his connections with the Cleveland Indians, is shown as he appeared for the first time in a New York Yankee uniform. He chose the World Champs after considering eight major league offers.

New York, April 21 (AP)—Four pitchers, all of whom had more or less fallen from glory in the past two years, were back on top today as the result of yesterday's opening games of the 1937 baseball season.

These four, Darrell Elijah (Cy) Blanton of Pittsburgh, Hal Schumacher of the New York Giants, Elden Auker of the Detroit Tigers and Monte Weaver of the Washington Senators turned in some of the most sparkling feats on the six-game program which attracted a total of 181,016 cash customers.

The seventh game on the general opening plate, which followed Monday's pregame in two cities, was rained out. Chicago's White Sox and the St. Louis Browns, weather permitting, will make their debuts today.

Blanton, who won 18 and lost 13 for the Pirates in 1935, suffered last season from the second-season let-down that afflicts many star rookies and his earned run average hopped from 2.59 to 3.51.

In spite of that, Manager Pie Traynor shoved Blanton into the opener against the Chicago Cubs yesterday, and Cy pitched a five-hit shutout to win 5-0 and sent Pirate hopes soaring.

Schumacher, another sinker ball expert, won 19 and lost 9 two seasons back, but he almost threw his arm out of joint on every pitch and last year had trouble with his right elbow.

Even during the 1936 world series, Schumacher didn't have his old control. But it was there for the 1937 opener and Hal limited the Dodgers to five hits as the Interborough rivalry was renewed before 32,387 fans. In addition, he drove in the ninth-inning run that brought the Giants a 4 to 3 victory.

Auker, No. 3 on the list, also was at his best in 1935 when he won 18 and lost only 7, but slumped last year when it was thought his "submarine" delivery had taken its toll on his arm. He got his come-back chance because both Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges were ill, limited Cleveland to nine blows and won 4-3 when Gerald Walker thrilled 38,200 customers with a terrific clouting show.

Weaver, a star in 1932, slid clear back to Albany three years later. He returned to the Senators last year and showed so much improvement he was named to oppose the Yankees before the 45,850 crowd that turned out for New York's opener. He subdued the world champions in all but one inning and came through with a 3-2 decision.

One of the largest crowds in the history of Cincinnati's Crosley Field, 34,374, saw Dizzy Dean, touched for 15 hits, blank the Reds for ten innings and emerge with a 2 to 0 decision when Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize connected for successive doubles off Ray (Peaches) Davis. Lippy Leo Durocher singled and Catcher Bruce Ogrodowski dropped a long fly into the outfield.

The Philadelphia Athletics, who led the American League for one day, came back to normal when three pitchers failed to check the attack of the Boston Red Sox and the Gold-Flatters won 11 to 5. Harry Kelley, the starter, yielded eight runs and half of Boston's 18 hits. The A's, however, came up with the home run leader in Bob Johnson, who hit his second in two days.

The Boston Bees and the Phillies, who opened with a doubleheader Monday, remained idle.

Mungo to give Giants 4-3 victory over Brooklyn.

Al Simmons, Senators, collected homer and two singles as Washington Senators shaded New York Yankees, 3-2.

Bob Johnson, Athletics, hit his second homer in two days and two singles although team bowed to Red Sox, 11-8.

Mt. Vernon Barber Scores High Single

New York, April 21 (AP)—If any records are to be broken in the American Bowling Congress tournament—outside of those for size that were shattered as soon as the entry list are completed—the fellows who are scheduled to bowl in the next two weeks will have to be a lot better than the thousands of legions that have preceded them.

Detroit's Krakow Furniture Company team first took the five-man lead, totalling 3,118, against the record of 3,199 established in 1927 by the Tea Shops of Milwaukee. Later Walter Ward of Cleveland approached the high all-events total of 2,053, made in 1933 by Gil Zunker of Milwaukee, who couldn't come close to that figure a couple of days ago. Ward rolled a nine-game 2,039.

Yesterday it was Little Gene Gagliardi, an unheralded and unassuming legler who owns a barber shop in suburban Mount Vernon. For two games it looked as if Gagliardi would break Larry Shotwell's singles record of 774 when he put together games of 226 and 277. But on his final game he drew apares instead of strikes and scored a comparatively low 206.

The three-game score of 749 gave Gagliardi the singles lead by 20 pins over Ernie Soest of Santa Monica, Cal., who had topped the standing for three weeks.

Lady Bowlers Pick Cincinnati

Rochester, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—With Cincinnati picked for the 1938 tourney city, contestants in the Women's International Bowling Congress today slept late with but four five-women teams competing for no singles or doubles schedules.

The Ohio city received 58 votes at last night's business session, with Los Angeles getting 23; Toledo 22 and Milwaukee 1.

Tonight will be "Omaha Night" with delegations from the Nebraska city monopolizing the alleys. Doubles and singles will be resumed tomorrow.

Birdie Speck, St. Louis, was elected first vice president last night.

Meyer Can't Sell His Speedster

Indianapolis, April 21 (AP)—Blame superstition, fear that something may be wrong with the car, or what have you, but Lou Meyer can't find anyone who wants the speedster with which he won the 500 mile speedway race here last May.

Meyer, already signed to drive one of three cars entered in this year's race by Mike Boyle of Chicago, just arrived from the west and brought his 1936 race winning automobile.

It's for sale, but he can't find a buyer.

Meyer says the car is in fine shape; that he never has had any trouble with it in three years, but that he can't understand the scarcity of buyers.

While hunting for prospective buyers Lou will use the car for warm up trials at the speedway.

America Arms Against Bugs —Enemy's Always With Us

By HERBERT PLUMMER
AP Feature Service Writer

Washington, April 21.—America is arming this year with poisons for a war on bugs.

Upwards of $12,000,000 will be spent by the government to combat insects and plant diseases. Federal forces augmented by thousands of farmers have set out to move on dozens of fronts.

The enemy is inside the land even as it strikes these days. When the Graf Zeppelin made her second trip to this country in 1929, plant quarantine inspectors found 20 species of insects on board, six of which were not known to occur in this country. Later on the 3,000 airplanes from foreign countries inspected at 11 ports of entry, a thousand lots of prohibited plant material were intercepted.

Hoppers First Objective

One of the first objectives in the war on bugs is to repulse the advance of the grasshoppers reported massed for attack on at least nine midwestern states. More than 81,000 tons of poison bait will be laid down against this pest—54,000 more tons than were used last year.

Mormon crickets hatching in early spring in the high waste lands of the northwest will meet a barrage of poison dust on their way down to the cultivated valleys. The government has set aside $300,000 to fight this pest with sodium arsenite shot from dust guns.

A state-wide survey in Idaho indicates that 1,226,000 acres of crop and range lands are within the borders infested by the crickets and that a minimum of 90,000 acres of land must be "dusted" to ensure control in 1937.

Problem Ever Changing

Because the winter mortality of chinch bugs so destructive of wheat and other small grains has been reported as very low, federal forces have dug in for a determined battle in the middle-west.

And these are only a few phases of the fight.

The coaling moth (destructive to orchards), the boll weevil (cotton's worst enemy), the corn ear worm, the ground beetle, the Japanese beetle—literally hundreds of such pests offer a constant challenge to the ingenuity of man.

"The problem changes every year with changing weather, changing types of insects and new diseases," says Secretary Wallace. "The truth will never be fully learned."

District Attorney Speaks to Firemen

county association in pledging mutual aid in fighting fires would prove of great benefit in reducing fire rates in Ulster county. He said that the Underwriters still persisted in classing Ulster as a second rate county, while they gave first rating to Greene, Orange and Dutchess counties. This action was being vigorously fought by the local insurance men, who were urging that Ulster be designated as a first class county and giving the advantage of lower insurance rates as was obtained in the neighboring counties.

Mayor C. J. Heislman again welcomed the firemen to Kingston and said that the city was always glad to entertain the fire companies and hopes that they would meet again in the city. He closed with the wish that their stay here might prove not only pleasant but instructive.

The entertainment committee of Cord's Hose then presented the New-Kirk Mountaineers in several musical numbers while Martin Kelly of Rapid Hose sang two vocal solos.

The entertainment was brought to a close with the showing of a thrilling newspaper saga in two reels, "Hot Off the Presses." Mr. Carey said that the committee had endeavored in vain to obtain the film, "The Third Alarm," but the thrilling newspaper story pleased the large audience apparently just as well as the other picture would have.

Convention in July

The annual county convention of the association will be held this year on Friday and Saturday, July 23 and 24, at Fort Ewen.

Furnish music and entertainment for the firemen that day

Four Still Missing

There are four county fire departments whose names do not appear on the membership roll of the association. These four departments are Rosendale, Plattekill, Pine Hill and Blinewater, and efforts will be made to induce them to unite with the association.

It was stated that Blinewater was expected to file an application for membership shortly and it was reported that Rosendale was busy reorganizing its department and would likely join the association later.

The town of Woodstock is planning for a big celebration which will open on Memorial Day and the county firemen were invited to visit that village and enjoy the celebration program.

John T. Groves of Fort Ewen, president of the association, presided at the business meeting.

Following the showing of the movie refreshments were served by Cordus Hose and a social time enjoyed.

The new emergency truck of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation was driven in front of the Plattekill School hall while the firemen were given a demonstration by the crew that manned it, which proved both instructive and entertaining.

The meeting last evening was said to be one of the largest attended held in some time.

At Their Own Risk

London, April 21. (AP)—The government warned British merchant vessels today that they would be protected only on the high seas and that entry into Spanish territorial waters would be "at their own risk." Faced with renewed opposition over the government's Spanish sea policy, Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of admiralty, told the house of commons.

"So long as a British merchant ship remains on the high seas, she will be protected by the British warships with a call, immediately she is fired on or subjected to illegal interference."

churches. A revision of membership lists in many churches was noted with the dropping from the roll of members inactive or moved away.

The Rev. James Pratt, secretary of the board of pensions, was present and explained the pension part of contracts between churches and ministers. The Bethlehem Church in Salisbury Mills, where the Presbyterians met, and which was not before in the pension plan, was enrolled. Dr. Pratt explained that Presbyterians were exempt from requirements of the social security act because of the pension contract and that without this exemption there would be larger levies made by the federal government.

Work of the board of national missions was outlined in a report by the Rev. James N. Armstrong, of the Rondout Church, the board closing its church year without a deficit.

The Rev. Goodrich Gates has been minister of the First Presbyterian Church of this city for the past five years. He came here in Mar. 1932, from a nearly five years' pastorate in the Presbyterian Church of the Puritans, New York City. He began service in New York as assistant pastor but upon the death of the Rev. Amos P. Atterbury soon after he was given full responsibility as minister-in-charge.

In this coming summer Dr. Gates will have completed his tenth year in church service.

Third Hobby Show Of Comforter Men Held Last Night

The Reformed Church of the Comforter Men's Club held its third annual hobby show Tuesday evening in the church hall. Approximately 125 people were present including the members, their wives and sweethearts. Frank Elmendorf was in charge of the entertainment for the evening and Ray Nickerson was the power behind the hobby show.

The theme for the entire evening program was hobbies, even to the various parts of the entertainment which opened with a selection by Don Hick's orchestra. The program listed five variety acts including the orchestra, talk by C. A. Raschke, novelty dance by Mabel Brewer and Ethel Bauer, magic tricks by Fred Van Deusen, and a chalk talk by Ray Nickerson.

Benefit of Hobbies

C. A. Raschke was introduced by master of ceremonies Frank Elmendorf, as the man of many hobbies. Mr. Raschke, a former member of the Comforter Church, began his informal talk by quoting William Tell who upon his return to Switzerland said, "Ye crags and peaks, I'm here with you once again."

The speaker stated that he supposed his interest in hobbies and building things came from early boyhood when as the youngest in a large family he was always delegated to do the odd jobs that cropped up around the home—"let the kid do it." He was always hoarding bits of this and that because he had the feeling that some time those discarded articles that had been consigned to the junk pile would be useful for something.

When working in the cigar factory Mr. Raschke built a clock fashioned from 1,330 separate bits of wood of cigar boxes and later by acquiring old beds and bureaus that were being discarded, he used the wood for the construction of three grandfather's clocks which are really beautiful pieces of furniture. His flower hobby had its beginning on a vacant lot on Broadway many years ago when he planted a garden to cover a hole that had not been filled in.

The retired postman went on to point out that a hobby was a means of relaxation from daily work, affording a necessary rest. The idea of the educational value of hobbies was stressed as well as the companionship they oftentimes give a lone person, and also the sense of satisfaction in creating something and not wasting time was a point in favor of the hobby idea.

The speaker, who has also constructed three desks from reclaimed wood of old furniture and parts of an old organ, closed his talk with the statement, "And with all this getting, get a hobby."

Various Exhibits

The walls of the Comforter hall were lined with the various exhibits of the members and their wives. Hung high on the walls were many oil paintings done by Ray Nickerson. Three churches, the Comforter, the First Dutch and the Flatbush Reformed, were portrayed by the local artist, together with the Comforter parsonage, and many landscape scenes. Lester Tubby exhibited a radio receiver and an amplifying system, and Zach Hermance displayed several cactus plants. Fancy work was represented by Mrs. Gordon Craig, Mrs. Howard Aliton and Miss Grace Aliton. Stamp collecting had a prominent place in the show with C. A. Raschke showing his stamp designs, and W. S. Wood and Gordon Craig, Jr., having first day covers and blocks of commemoratives.

An antique display was the property of Fred L. Tubby, and coins had their place with an exhibition by W. S. Wood and Gordon Craig, Jr. The younger element was well represented with Robert Hudner showing some model airplanes, William and Donald Wood showing stamps and bird lore, and William Nickerson having a fine model of the "Queen Mary" and a freighter. Some architectural sketches, including plans for a church seating 40 people, were displayed by Gordon Kent, and attracted much favorable comment. Mrs. Howard Aliton, Mrs. Samuel Williams, Mrs. Charles Keese and Mrs. E. Nickerson, had some fine shawls and table covers entered, while several of the above ladies and Mrs. Frank Elmendorf, Mrs. Zach Hermance, Mrs. Ray Nickerson, and Miss Grace Aliton, displayed patchwork quilts.

Wood turning was again represented by Frank Elmendorf, and Charles Keese had some photographs of entertainments in the hall. Last year's show featured a rogues' gallery of various club members when they were celebrating their first birthday, and this year followed up that performance with views of the bellies of other days, featuring the wives of the members when they still held the titles of Miss so and so. The donor of this display remained a mystery.

The Ulster & Delaware railroad was represented in miniature by Henry P. Elkhimer, who had a model of engine No. 23, three cars and a caboose, mounted on a section of model track, and also a combination station patterned after the Ashokan station. This display was a part of the complete model layout, all closely following the former 11-ter & Delaware, boasting 24 feet of track, stations, storage yards, rolling stock and six engines. Ray Nickerson also displayed an excellent replica of the "Merrill" which contained 122 separate people promading on the little decks. Other model boats by Mr. Nickerson were the tugboat "Stratus" and a coast guard patrol boat, "Atlanta."

Another selection by Don Hick's orchestra closed the evening program.

Celebrates Her 11th Birthday

Windsor, England, April 21. (AP)—Princess Elizabeth, heir presumptive to the British throne, celebrated her 11th birthday today with play at a make-believe "coronation" which may some day be turned into reality for her.

There were presents from her mother and father, King George and Queen Elizabeth, and a surprise package from "Uncle David," whose abdication as Edward VIII last December brought her onstep nearer the throne, but her absorbing interest now is in a child's version of the coronation of her parents May 12.

In the game, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, her younger sister, play the leading roles while their patient nurse acts as the congregation in Westminster Abbey.
